MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

BY BASIL KIRBY, 2004/05 NATC BOARD OF DIRECTORS, PRESIDENT

To date, we have had a very busy year. The functions have been excellent. We have had good mix of guest speakers dealing with various industry topics of interest to our membership.

It's amazing how fast time has passed. National Transportation Week (NTW) is now just over a month away. NTW is the first full week of June every year. This week is set aside to recognize the vital role of transportation in our society. In keeping with tradition, our NTW Committee has put together a great program to celebrate our industry. Starting with All Modes Dinner and ending with our Annual Golf Tournament, there are activities that are of interest to our members and the general public. Please take time to get all the details for NTW 2005 in this issue of your newsletter and plan your participation accordingly. In order for our celebration to be a success, we require the full participation of our members. I am confident that our membership will step up and make this year's NTW celebration the best yet!

It would appear that we have found a new home for our luncheons. The Royal Glenora Club has welcomed us with great food and hospitality. I invite our membership to once again sample Royal Glenora hospitality with our May luncheon where we talk football with Mr. Rick LeLacheur of the Edmonton Eskimos. See you all there!

BAS KIRBY, PRESIDENT

EDMONTON CELEBRATES NTW WEEK!

BY PAULA STEPHENSON

All sectors of the transportation industry come together in events across the country each year during the first week of June to celebrate National Transportation Week. NTW promotes understanding of the vital importance of our transportation system in Canada's economic and social development.

We live in a time of unprecedented travel, when goods and services, regardless of origin, can be available in a short amount of time. Thanks to imagination, innovation, and investment in transportation, we can safely commute to work, receive overnight mail, buy fresh fruit and vegetables, and travel to destinations around the world.

Canada's transportation systems take us where we need to go and keeps our economy moving. NTW encourages us to renew our commitment to increasing transportation safety, ensuring a strong skilled work force for the future, and to keeping our transportation system on the leading edge of technology.

In order to sustain these advantages, we must continue to invest in Canada's transportation systems. From enhancing existing highways, waterways, railway lines, pipelines, and airports, to developing fuel-efficient and reduced-emissions vehicles, we must work towards improving safety, and protecting the environment.

Commercial vehicles, like big rigs, buses, taxis and limos, as well as service vehicles like firetrucks, military and police vehicles will gather and parade through Edmonton's west-end. In addition, transportation related industries will provide elaborate floats to represent their industries within the parade. The intent of this parade is to showcase the expansiveness of the transportation/logistics industry and represent the past, present, and future of land transportation.

JUNE 4, 2005 - TRADESHOW

An excellent opportunity for businesses to showcase their products and services to transportation professionals and the general public. The event will provide an opportunity for suppliers to introduce present technologies and future initiatives, and for clients to survey the vast array of goods and services available to them.

JUNE 4, 2005 - JOB FAIR

This event provides information on a variety of training programs and career opportunities currently available in transportation. The fair will provide a forum for individuals who are interested in careers in the industry to interact with prospective employers and representatives from related educational institutions. Employers and educational institutions will also benefit from this fair beyond the recruiting aspects for the proximity of the related groups will allow for more enhanced relationship building.

JUNE 4, 2005 - SHOW & TELL

Evolving from the parade, this event will display a wide variety of antique and new commercial vehicles. Being largely a family event, of particular interest to children, the Show & Tell will allow industry representatives to increase public awareness of their companies and educate the public on the history and future direction of transportation in Alberta.

CALLING ALL MENTORS!

BY PAULA STEPHENSON

This is a call for Transportation professionals who would like to influence the career and academic choices of transportation students.

In particular, I am looking for mentors in the field of supply chain management.

Organizations around the world are facing major shifts in the management of their supply chains, from IT to organizational design. The result is unprecedented demand for highly trained supply chain professionals.

Be a part of contributing to the future of transportation!

"To teach a man how he may learn to grow independently, and for himself, is perhaps the greatest service that one man can do another."

Talking about Support..

THE TRANSPORTATION AND TRAINING DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION NEEDS OUR SUPPORT!

BY MARK HEMMES

At the April Luncheon, speaker Darshan Kailly, President of Canadian Freightways, called upon those in the Transportation industry in Alberta to make their support for a formal Truck Driver training program known to the Provincial Minister of Infrastructure and Transportation. In his role as President of the "Transportation and Training Development Association", Mr. Kailly reiterated past calls for the creation of a formal apprenticeship program for truck drivers in the Province of Alberta, not unlike other formal trade skills programs and one that would set Alberta out as the countries leader in addressing one of the most critical issues faced by the transportation industry today.

Show your support for this initiative and write to Minister Oberg at the address below:

Minister of Infrastructure and Transportation

MENTORSHIP & INTERNSHIP PROGRAMS GOING FORWARD

BY PAULA STEPHENSON

PROJECT ABSTRACT:

Educational research shows that personal growth is most profound in an environment that combines challenging real-world problems, people with multi-tiered experience, sound leadership, and a dynamic setting in which to interact. Mentoring at many levels plays a critical role in this process.

Part of my mandate as TCI's Executive Vice President of Education is to create this type of learning. We are all always in the process of learning and teaching. Finding just the right people to learn from or to teach is the challenge. The TCI Mentorship Program consists of bringing mentors and mentees together, as well as providing workshops on topics of interests.

The purpose of this project is to explicitly support educational efforts connected with transportation-related projects. This will result in enhanced capabilities of our graduate and undergraduate mentors and will provide performance assessment tools and training models that can be adapted for use in the transportation industry.

I am currently in the process of creating a PLANNING TEAM. Programs should begin by building awareness among key stakeholders in the community. My mandate at this point is to foster "buy-in" and commitment from groups and individuals that are critical to the program's success and will help to identify potential members of a core Planning Team.

As the program progresses, the planning team will be responsible for every aspect of the program, from its inception to its evaluation. The team will get support from schools and the community; allocate funds; help to define the mentor role descriptions; help to take responsibility for recruiting, training, retaining, and rewarding the mentors.

Should you be interested in more information on how you can get involved on the planning team, or in fact, become a mentor to a student studying for their Bachelor of Applied International Business and Supply Chain Management at Grant MacEwan College, please contact me at 780-463-5824.
